

Senior Consultant & Trainer

Stephanie Forster

Philosophy:

“Be NEW!” These three letters speak on the one hand for Stephanie Forster's character and, simultaneously, her training and concept design. Her “curiosity” means she is continually searching for chances to optimise and connect among participants and also both existing and new training concepts. For her, “empathy” means transforming the personality traits, motives, emotions and ideas of each participant into something very special and being ready to do this at any time. “Appreciation” is what Stephanie lives and works for. Personally, she says: “No success experience is greater than the thanks you receive at the end of a training seminar.” This means both “Thanks for putting up with me for two or three days” and “Thank you for allowing me to help you with your development.”
